9:30 to 10:30 a.m.	Conduct and Conflict: Old Ideas, New Applications! Speaker: Craig Whitton, Resolution Officer, NAIT Facilitator: Denise MacIver	"To the hammer, everything is a nail". For a generation, educational institutions have had a "hammer" for dealing with student conduct and conflict. This presentation will be all about expanding your toolbox. It's not meant to make you an expert, but it will let you know which tool to reach for to achieve your goal. Some of these tools are ancient – like Restorative Justice -- and some are more modern, but each has a use in a modern campus. Conflict and Conduct do not have to be a dreaded final destination when things go wrong; they can be an integral and positive part of a student's educational, personal, and social development. The information from this presentation doesn't just help students during their time at your institution, but continues to help them throughout their careers as the next generation of medical practitioners.
10:30 to 10:45 a.m.	Health Break
10:45 to 12:30 p.m.	Part 1 - Policy and Legal Issues when Dealing with Students, Faculty and Health Care Setting Speakers: Michael Sondermann, Associate Registrar, SAIT and Susan Radke, Academic Affairs, SAIT Facilitator: Michael Dumoulin	Michael and Susan are returning to CAAHP by popular demand! Both have legal training and will deal with specific real-world case studies relating to policy and legal issues arising in allied health programs and services as they've experienced in their roles at SAIT. This is an interactive session, where participants are involved in working through the case studies both in small groups and in the large group.
12:30 to 1:30 p.m.	Lunch Break
1:30 to 3:00 p.m.	Part 2 - Policy and Legal Issues Facilitator: Michael Dumoulin	Session will continue and participants will be encouraged to submit (in their registration forms) topics for discussion with our speakers. Some of the case studies will also deal with the aboriginal students and faculty and any issues related to policy and legality that they may present.
3:00 to 3:30 p.m.	Wrap-Up Session (feedback and evaluation) Facilitator: Lornie Hughes
